STUDENT OUTCOMES ~ DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION & LEADERSHIP

Graduates of this program will be able to:

• Demonstrate a thorough understanding of communication theory and its practical uses

• Exhibit excellence in interpersonal skills, public-speaking, small group dynamics, writing and multi-media

• Understand and analyze the influence of communication technologies on American and global societies.

• Understand the significance of culture in international and intercultural communication and be an effective communicator and leader in a multicultural environment.

• Solve communication problems in modern organizations and social systems from a communication and leadership perspective.

• Understand the role of ethics in communication and leadership and to develop a coherent ethical philosophy for communication and leading others.

• Describe an integrated vision of a leader and utilize this vision in service to others.

• Carry out sustained independent research and develop it into a full thesis.