gonzaga university

From its founding in 1887 by Father Joseph Cataldo, S.J., as a frontier boarding school for boys, Gonzaga University has established its unique identity. Named for the Jesuit Saint Aloysius Gonzaga, the patron of youth, the 120-year-old institution has grown and matured into one of the West's premier regional universities – fiscally conservative and financially strong, fully accredited, and dedicated to delivering excellent teaching and providing a caring community atmosphere for students. Gonzaga's educational philosophy is based on the centuries-old Ignatian model that aims to educate the whole person – mind, body and spirit – an integration of science and art, faith and reason, action and contemplation.

The Washington state Legislature accorded Gonzaga university status in 1912, the same year the School of Law began. The Roaring '20s lent a raucous tone to campus life, and were highlighted by the establishment of the School of Business Administration (1921) and the School of Education (1928). The Graduate School was launched in 1931. In the 1930s, new national interest in hydroelectric projects sparked a demand for engineers and justified establishment of the School of Engineering in 1934.

Enrollment began to swell in the late 1940s. Women were admitted in 1948. Bing Crosby, perhaps Gonzaga's most famous alumnus, was instrumental in construction of the Crosby Library in 1957, which is now the Crosby Student Center. In 1963, the Gonzaga-in-Florence study-abroad program was initiated. Campus construction has been constant since the 1960s. Today each school has its own building and campus housing accommodates about 2,500 students. The School of Professional Studies was established in 1975. Zag basketball continues to flourish with nine straight NCAA Tournament appearances.

academic programs

Gonzaga embodies the intellectual powers of five schools offering seven undergraduate degrees in 43 majors. The University also offers degrees in 26 master's programs, one Ph.D. program and a Juris Doctor through the School of Law.

The academic heart and strength of Gonzaga's liberal arts tradition lies in its core curriculum which integrates philosophy, theology, history, mathematics, literature, the natural and social sciences, and extensive writing in students' major disciplines.

In addition, Gonzaga offers programs in preparation for admission to professional schools in dentistry, law, medicine, nursing, physical therapy and veterinary medicine. The University sponsors an Army ROTC program, preparing students to become commissioned officers upon graduation. Gonzaga students may study abroad at Gonzaga-in-Florence, Italy, or at programs in England, France, Spain, Japan, China and Mexico.

campus and facilities

There are 94 buildings on the lush, grass-covered 120-acre campus, a few of which are worth special distinction. The Jundt Art Center and Museum hosts major art exhibitions. The Foley Center library's Cowles Rare Book Room houses a collection of books up to 500 years old. The Crosby Student Center is home to the public display of memorabilia of Gonzaga alumnus Bing Crosby. Gonzaga offers student housing in 16 residence halls, six apartment complexes and 15 houses. Sodexo Food Services operates a major student dining hall in the COG, plus numerous cafes and snack bars around campus. The Martin Centre is home to Gonzaga's Athletic Department and the Kermit Rudolf Fitness Center. The fitness center offers basketball, volleyball and racquetball courts, and fitness rooms. It also offers a wide variety of strength and cardiovascular equipment for the Gonzaga community as well as a six-lane, 25-yard swimming pool and an indoor running track. The 6,000-seat McCarthy Athletic Center is home to men's and women's basketball.

Gonzaga offers seven men's and seven women's sports at the NCAA Division I level. Gonzaga has competed in the West Coast Conference in men's sports since 1979, and in women's sports since 1987. Men's sports include basketball, baseball, soccer, golf, tennis, cross country/track and crew. Women's sports include volleyball, basketball, soccer, tennis, cross country/track, crew and golf. Intramural volleyball, flag football, basketball, softball, soccer, racquetball and Ultimate Frisbee are among numerous activities offered. A variety of club sports also are available, including ice hockey, lacrosse and snowboarding.

Gonzaga offers special student services through the following centers: University Ministry; Career Center; Counseling and Career Assessment Center; Crosby Student Center; Housing and Residence Life; Disability Resources, Education and Access Management; Health Center; Student Activities; the Center for Community Action and Service Learning (CCASL); and Unity House. Gonzaga Student Body Association (GSBA) sponsors a variety of clubs and activities, including renowned guest speakers, dances, street fairs, boat cruises and ski days. The newspaper, yearbook and other publications offer students additional opportunities to exercise their creativity.

Gonzaga maintains contact with over 34,000 alumni. Notable alumni include the late actor and crooner Bing Crosby; Thomas Foley, former Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives; National Basketball Association all-time assists and steals record-holder John Stockton, formerly of the Utah Jazz; Minnesota Twins owner Carl Pohlad; the late James Wickwire, attorney and world-class mountain climber; Michael Stepovich, the last territorial governor of Alaska (and father-in-law of John Stockton); the late Tony Canadeo, National Football League Hall of Fame member; Christine Gregoire, the first female Washington state attorney general and current Governor; and the late Spokane attorney and civil rights leader Carl Maxey.
