Honorary Degree and Commencement Address

Stephanie Russell

Jesuit higher education institutions are unique in fostering intellectual rigor that is a transformative quest of faith, and promoting service as a spiritual undertaking, rooted in human dignity. This calls forth a great responsibility, according to Dr. Stephanie Russell, such that nothing that happens at a Jesuit school is exempt from the Jesuit mission. She says that even when St. Ignatius Loyola was consumed with being an administrator of a global project, he never stopped spending some of each week with the poor.

As Vice President for Mission Integration at the Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities (AJCU), Russell carries out her commitment to the advancement of Jesuit ideals and identity by designing and implementing programs to help Jesuit schools enhance mission effectiveness. She maintains in her work a strong focus on Catholic social teaching and intellectual tradition, the Ignatian spiritual and educational heritage, and interreligious dialogue. She has cultivated all of these not only in her activity but also through her educational journey, having earned a Bachelor of Arts from Marquette University, a Master of Arts in Pastoral Studies from St. Francis Seminary in Wisconsin, and finally to date, a Doctorate in Higher Education Management from the University of Pennsylvania.

Russell’s work in ministry began in the 1980s at Red Cloud Indian School in Pine Ridge, South Dakota -- one of the poorest counties in the United States. She then served eleven years as Provincial Assistant for Lay Formation and Social Ministry with the Wisconsin Province of the Society of Jesus, followed by fifteen years as Vice President for Mission and Ministry at Marquette University before coming to AJCU in 2016.

While at Marquette University, Russell co-founded a program which established her as a leader in lay Jesuit collaboration. The Ignatian Colleagues Program began as a movement among the twelve Jesuit Heartland-Delta colleges and universities for administrators who collaborated within the Midwest and South Central regions of the United States. The concept grew out of the perceived need for more intentional, integrated formation for people who want to partner with Jesuits in higher education. Today, nearly 375 participants from across the nation have completed the professional development and formation program, and have shared experience in over 200 service projects. These mission leaders are addressing current and future challenges of Jesuit higher education by exercising administrative decision-making that reflects Ignatian values, practices, and Jesuit commitments at their home schools. The program continues to serve the 28 Jesuit colleges and universities in the United States.

For her deep understanding of Ignatian pedagogy and her lifelong commitment to Jesuit higher education, Gonzaga University proudly bestows upon Stephanie Russell a Doctor of Laws.

The original seal adopted by the University in the early nineties depicted an eagle with protectively spread wings surrounded by the name, Gonzaga University. The new seal, designed about 1914, took the form of a coat of arms and has been used on all degrees, medals, and formal documents since that time.

The eagle of the original seal was retained. It perches, with wings still spread protectively, atop a coat of arms in the form of a shield.

The dexter chief hatchment contains two gray wolves with forepaws upon a black pot and chain on a field of white. This represents the House of Loyola (lobo-y-olla, i.e., the wolves and the pot), Ignatius Loyola being the founder of the Society of Jesus (Jesuits). The pride of the House of Loyola was that it fed the poor and kept the wolf from its door.

In the bottom right hatchment (sinister base), there are depicted the arms of the House of Gonzaga, a purple cross sustaining an inescutcheon, the lions of Florence, and three purple bars for the ecclesiastical dignity of the House. The four falcons in the corners of the escutcheon represent the hunting prowess of the family.

In the upper right (sinister chief), in the colors of Spain, are seven red bars on a field of gold, given to the House of Onez by the King, because seven brothers of that House distinguished themselves in the service of Spain.

In the bottom left (dexter base), are a sunburst over the Spokane Falls, a pine tree and an Indian tepee. All are representative of the Spokane community, which is named for the Spokane Indians. Spokane means children of the sun.

The eagle in the crest is the American bald eagle of the Republic and the symbols above: the IHS is the name of Jesus, His cross, and the three nails of His crucifixion. In the crest the nails and lettering are black with a surrounding halo of gold. The in-escutcheon in the center of the shield carries an immaculate white G on a field of royal blue, the colors of the University.

The scroll carries the letters AMDG, which stand for Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam (To God’s Greater Glory), the motto of the Society of Jesus as given to it by its founder, Saint Ignatius Loyola. Under the scroll is the year of the University’s founding, 1887. The wreath of bay leaves on the right represents classic renown and the wreath of oak on the left signifies civic pride.
Academic Regalia

College and university graduation ceremonies are resplendent with color. One is likely to see almost every color in the spectrum, representing scholarly achievement in many academic fields.

Based upon the costumes worn at universities in the 14th and 15th centuries, today’s American academic dress was standardized in 1895. It includes the familiar square mortarboard cap symbolizing the commitment of the scholar to a life of building. It has a tassel which may be black or an appropriate color (e.g., gold for those with a doctoral degree, purple for law). The custom of shifting the cap’s tassel from the right side to the left signifies the conferring of the degree. Three styles of gowns and hoods represent bachelor’s, master’s, and doctor’s degrees.

The bachelor’s gown usually has long pointed sleeves, while the master’s gown has a long crescent-shaped sleeve. The doctor’s has a very full, bell-shaped sleeve with three velvet bands matching the velvet facing of the gown opening. The velvet on the doctor’s gown often is the color appropriate to the wearer’s field of study.

Of the three styles of hoods, the doctor’s is naturally the most elaborate. All three hoods are made of material to match the gowns and are lined in the official color of the institution which conferred the degree, with a chevron used for a second color if needed. (Gonzaga’s colors are blue and white.) The colored velvet binding indicates the academic area in which the degree was received—white for liberal arts, yellow for science, drab for business, purple for law, light blue for education, scarlet for theology, and so forth.

School Banners

Academic Convocation starts with a procession featuring the college and school banners being ceremoniously placed on the altar. The banners represent the various schools of the University and are carried in order according to the dates the schools were established. The College of Arts & Sciences is the original school, established in 1887, and the flag colors combine the white crest for liberal arts and the yellow background for science. The School of Law was started in 1912 and uses purple as its symbol. The next flag, drab in color (drab might best be described as light cocoa brown), represents our School of Business Administration, which officially began in 1921, followed in 1928 by the School of Education with its light blue flag. The orange-colored flag from 1934 denotes the School of Engineering & Applied Science, while the 1975 flag for the School of Professional Studies unites the white of liberal arts with the apricot of nursing. The banner for Gonzaga’s newest school, Nursing and Human Physiology, established in 2013, features sage and apricot colors. Each flag is highlighted by a cross in Gonzaga blue upon which is placed the University seal.

Presidential Chain of Office

The Gonzaga presidential chain of office, sometimes referred to as the presidential medallion, is worn as part of the president’s academic attire at ceremonial occasions such as Commencement and Convocations. The chain is worn around the neck and drapes down across the chest and the back. Its design combines the seal of the university and important dates that represent the university’s history. The medallion with the university seal and the name is the focal point of the chain. 1887, the School of Law–1912, the School of Business Administration–1921, the School of Education–1928, the School of Engineering and Applied Science–1934, Gonzaga in Florence–1963, the School of Professional Studies–1975, Foley Center–1990, the School of Nursing and Human Physiology–2010, and the Center for Global Engagement–2013.
National Anthems

Star Spangled Banner

O say can you see by the dawn’s early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight’s last gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight,
O’er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming?
And the rockets’ red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
O say does that Star Spangled Banner yet wave
O’er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

O Canada!

O Canada! Our home and native land!
True patriot love in all thy sons command.
With glowing hearts we see thee rise
The true north strong and free!
From far and wide, O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.
God keep our land glorious and free!
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

Special thanks to the Knights and Setons service clubs for their assistance with the Commencement Ceremonies.
