Women 'Intrapreneurship': Leading Innovation in the Workplace
Presented by Dori Sonntag
Associate Vice President for Organizational Effectiveness, University Advancement Division, Gonzaga University

Research shows that women are uniquely qualified to become effective organizational 'intrapreneurs', breaking down silos that may exist to transform businesses and increase profit. Learn how to tap into the power of 'intrapreneurship' and use your entrepreneurial mindset to creatively solve the most pressing business problems while driving change within your organization.

Key Take-aways:
- How to determine the right idea to move forward
- How to sell your idea in your organization
- Identify the obstacles holding you back from moving innovative ideas forward

About the speaker: In addition to her role at Gonzaga University, Dori Sonntag is the principal of CORE Leadership Coaching, working with leaders and teams to unleash their full potential. Over the past 18 years, she has led and coached individuals and teams who have consistently realized record-breaking goals, specializing in diagnosing organizational needs, driving change, and building high performing teams. Dori is a certified professional coach and a Conversational Intelligence® CIQ Enhanced Skills Coach.

Monday, October 30th, 11:30 AM to 1:00 PM
Venue: Hemmingson Center Ballroom
Cost: $35/person
Register at https://commerce.cashnet.com/GULEAD
(listed under Non-CE Credits)

TO LEARN MORE, PLEASE CONTACT:
Rachelle Strawther | strawther@gonzaga.edu OR Sherri Lynch | lynchs@gonzaga.edu