In addition, GAMP has branched out, offering professional networking at key metropolitan areas. Treks include corporate engagements. Gonzaga offers career treks in Spokane, Seattle, San Francisco, Silicon Valley, Los Angeles, Denver and New York. The program is directed by Erin Shields, associate director of alumni and employer engagement.

Gonzaga is a season of significant transition for our students and alumni. The new academic year is being launched to prepare for two vice presidents, two deans and a director of the Woldson Performing Arts Center.

Here is a brief update on those searches:

• Vice President for University Advancement - The position has been approved and a job description is being formulated; meanwhile, Elisabeth Mermann-Kaufman serves as interim VP of Advancement.

• Vice President for Administration - The search is underway for this position, which has essentially been unfilled since the departure of Marty Martin in 2015. Meanwhile, Chief of Staff John Sklit serves as interim vice president until this position is filled.

• Law School Dean – A job description is posted, and the University’s search committee is working on the planned interview process. Jane Kifel to fill the position. Retiring Dean Jane Korn remains in this position until filled.

• Dean, soon-to-be-renewed School of Leadership Studies (currently Professional Studies) - No search this year. Associate Academic Vice President Johanna Weber has agreed to serve as an additional year as interim dean “to smooth the transition to the School of Leadership Studies,” says Mermann-Sowa.

• Director, Woldson Performing Arts Center – position has been posted with hopes of filling early in 2017.
New lab, three new program offerings keep Rosauer hopping

If we have learned anything about Dean Vinny Affolter in his five years heading the School of Education at Gonzaga, it’s that he’s always on the move, attending conferences and workshops, brainstorming new initiatives, and initiating new programs to serve both the needs of the educational community, including his students here on campus.

One example is the remodeled former informatics computer lab to a modern Active Learning Center on the ground floor. He had noticed upon his arrival that the computer lab in that area was small, dilapidated and its computer lab was increasingly needed, particularly by students in the new, emerging discipline of cybersecurity.

The School of Education is a professional school that offers three new non-residential academic programs: a master’s degree in education, an online master’s degree in education, and an online certificate in educational psychology. The new programs are designed to serve the needs of busy professionals in the field of education, who may not have the time to pursue a traditional degree program.

The master’s degree in education program is designed to prepare educational leaders who can effectively design and manage learning programs, and who can inspire and support students to achieve their full potential. The online master’s degree in education program is offered in an online format, and is designed for working professionals who are looking to advance their careers in education. The online certificate in educational psychology program is designed to prepare candidates who wish to work in roles requiring specialized knowledge in educational psychology, such as school psychologists, school counselors, and school social workers.

The School of Education at Gonzaga University offers exciting new program offerings that will continue to prepare our future leaders in education to serve in a variety of roles. We thank Dean Vinny for his leadership and vision in expanding our educational opportunities for students.
The basketball practice floor is just one of many new offerings in the Volkar Center, which is designed to make competing at the top level easier. A multi-purpose room introduces them to adjusting to college life as a student-athlete and all that it demands—juggling studying, practices and activities. Other improvements include new offices for athletic personnel (many previously offered in cubicles), renovated locker rooms for men’s basketball, men’s and women’s cross country, and new score and video boards for basketball, volleyball, soccer and baseball.

Brook Swanson, biology, and Suzanne Ostermilk, dance, are an unlikely pair. But they see the new Volkar Martin Centre Fieldhouse and are moved to tears by President, the party began to outgrow the room that was outgrown, and the party moved back to campus.
